

Glee Clubs Plan Concert-Dance at Willard May 6

Eighty Voices Feature Contrast, Variety at Annual Performance

• THE UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUBS will present their 20th Annual Spring Concert and Dance Saturday night in the main ballroom of the Willard Hotel. The concert, under the direction of Dr. Robert H. Harmon, will begin at 8:45 and will be followed by the Spring Dance.

Eighty voices strong, the clubs will carry on in the tradition of the years gone by. The mixed numbers will be in the religious vein, featuring Russian church hymns and folk melodies. Men's numbers will offer contrast and variety, ranging from the stirring "Invictus" to the light, melodic "Pale in the Amber West." Women's numbers are intended to show the wide variety of voices, testing the upper registers of the sopranos and the deep, almost baritone harmonic beauty, of the altos.

The program follows. In the first group, for mixed chorus, are: "Bless the Lord, Oh My Soul," by Ivanoff, "Praise to the Lord" by Christianson, "Lo! A Voice to Heaven Sounding" by Bortniansky, and Arkhangelsky's "Hear My Supplication".

The second group, for the men's club, is made up of: "Invictus" by Huhn, "Deep River" by Burleigh, "Pale in the Amber West" by Parks, and "Where 'Ere You Walk" by Handel.

The women's club will sing for the third group: "Oh Thou From Whom All Blessings Come," by Tchaikovsky, "Ave Maria" by Schubert, "Lullaby" by Mozart, and "Cachucha and Finale" from "The Gondoliers" by Sullivan.

The concluding group for mixed chorus will be: "Onward Ye Peoples" by Sibelius, "Fierce is the Wild Billow" by T. T. Noble, "Czechoslovak Song" by Kiblichich, and "Kamenoi Ostrow" by Rubenstein.

Members of the women's club are: First sopranos, Nancy Awtrey, Dorothy Bucklew, Marianne Edge, Lorraine Griggs, Nancy Jane Keisling, Carolyn Lyon, Dorothy McCann, Valerie Popham, Mary Rounds, Betty Lou Trowbridge and Margaret Truman.

Second sopranos: Betsy Barrow, June Cohen, Dorothy Egging, Pauline Gish, Ida Jo Grigg, Mary Guillet, Jane Lingo, Gertrude McNabb, Emma Montgomery, Edith Norris, Mera Riddell, Mary Ring, Evelyn Ann Sauder, Charmaine Tomkins and Ruth Votaw.

First alto: Shirley Albertson, Lorraine Arkin, Vivian Roba Burke, Josephine Forbes, Rennie Gulick, Constance Maynard, Betty Munson, Helen Potter, Mary Beth Sheppard, Jane Snyder, Mary Vilet, Marilyn Wherry.

Second alto: Jo Ann Allen, Anna Belle Compton, Lorna Grayson, Isabel Garrison, Betty June Karle, Marion Lee, Dorothy Lee Miller, Joan Palmer, Beverley Pardy, Lorraine Seegrist, Maria Sjolseth, Anne Thaler, Mary Ellen Vincent, Nancy Wilson.

Dirk Brady, Alumnus, Tells Of Adventures on Liberty Ship

By DAVID M. MULCAHY

• "THE MOST WELCOME sound I know is the sound of the buoy off Newport News," said Dirk Brady, who has just returned from duty as third engineer officer on board a Liberty ship.

Major reason for his flying trip to Washington over the weekend was his marriage to Miss Ziff and Brady majored in engineering while in the University.

Many exciting things have happened to Brady since he left the University, but in his own words, "The pasting our ships received at the Anzio beachhead from the Nazi long-range guns was the worst bit of action I experienced in nine months. Our boys went in against great handicaps and there was a time when the outcome was in doubt, but their aggressiveness and training paid off in the long run."

Brady has great respect and admiration for the gobs in the Navy and the merchant seamen in the Maritime service, who are the real unsung heroes of the war. "Many a ship would never have reached home if it hadn't been for the heroic efforts of the enlisted men," he said.

Asked what was perhaps the funniest episode in the past year, Brady said it was the time when they were on their way to North Africa. The Captain asked the third mate, "What is the draft of the ship?" The third mate replied, "What draft, captain?" The captain shouted angrily, "Not the Army draft! the draft of the ship."

Two other strange incidents occurred when they were rammed on (See BRADY, Page 3)

Balance on Annual Due Before June 1

• ALL STUDENTS WHO are leaving the city at the end of the semester and want their copy of the Cherry Tree sent to them are requested to stop in the Comptroller's Office and pay the balance due plus twenty cents to defray mailing expenses.

Mary Ring, Editor of the Cherry Tree, announced that the annual would be delivered about the tenth of June, and students remaining in the District may secure their copy at the Comptroller's Office.

Mortar Board To Tap Friday

• MORTAR BOARD tapping will take place at Parents' Night, Friday during the second part of the program, which is to be held on Lisner Terrace.

Junior girls who have shown outstanding leadership in activities in the University will be honored at that time by being tapped for membership. All junior girls have been requested to sit in the center and front of the seating area on Lisner Terrace, in order to expedite the ceremonies.

Initiation of new members will take place Saturday morning, and is to be followed by a breakfast at the Statler Hotel.

President Betty Munson has also announced that Mortar Board has voted to make the Big and Little Sister which was organized by Mortar Board an independent organization. Chairman Bertie Stamm of the Big and Little Sisters, is now making plans for election of officers.

DIRK BRADY

Prize Contest Closed

• PAPERS ON THE Widdell Peace Prize are being looked over by the committee, which is composed of the following men: Dean West, Assistant Dean of the School of Government; Dr. Tupper of the English Department; Dr. Tillemma, Professor of Political Science, and Dr. Murdock, Professor of English Literature.

QUEEN—is sweet Mera Riddell, lovely Pi Phi brunette, who will reign at the May Day ceremony to be held on Lisner Terrace, on Saturday, at 2 p.m., as part of the Campus Day program to which all University students are invited.

University Entertains Seniors At Annual Campus Day, May 6

• UNIVERSITY FACULTY and the student body will be hosts to senior boys and girls of the secondary schools in Washington at "Campus Day," Saturday. Registration at 10 a.m. in the Hall of Government, Room 101, will be followed by an opening assembly at 10:30.

Dean Christopher B. Garnett, Jr., will have charge of the assembly and Dean William C. Johnstone will speak on "What Should You Expect From College?" Vivianne Hooppaw, Betty Munson, and Marie Louise Ralph, of the student body will speak on "Our Campus Life."

Visitors will be conducted on a tour of campus buildings, including Lisner Auditorium, Library, Sorority Hall, Strong Residence Hall for Women, Buildings C and class rooms, laboratories and offices, and the Gymnasium, at 11:15 a.m.

The buffet luncheon at 12:30 p.m. is sponsored by the Big Sisters of the campus. Various songs will be presented: "Who's Who," with Morton Steinberg at the piano; "Hail, Alma Mater, to Thy Spirit Building" and "Hail to the Buff, Hail to the Blue" by the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Quartet; and "Let's Sing Together," led by Jessma Oslin for Mortar Board.

The May Day Ceremony will be held at 2 p.m. on Lisner Terrace. The processional of the May Queen and her Court will be followed by the crowning of the Queen. The program to be presented for the May Queen and her guests is as follows: selections by the Glee Club; "The Congo" by Vachel Lindsay; Cue 'n' Curtain; "Waltz" by Dunham, the Modern Dance Group; an original radio show by Cue 'n' Curtain; Country Dance; Pistol Packin' Mama, by Dexter, Modern Dance; "The Waltz" by Dorothy Parker, Cue 'n' Curtain; and Polka by Shostakovich, Modern Dance.

Hellenic Society Announces Drive

• AT ITS REGULAR meeting April 27, the Hellenic Society announced that it felt that there was sufficient demand for modern Greek to include it in the college curriculum. Any students interested in studying modern Greek are asked to contact Anne Papps or John Paraskevas about signing a petition. If 20 students sign, the course may be taught during the fall term.

College Changes Switchboard Hours

• THE OFFICE OF Building and Grounds of the University announced last week that the University switchboard will observe the following hours beginning May 4: Mondays through Fridays—closed from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m.; Saturdays and Sundays—closed from 1 p.m. Saturday to 8 a.m. Monday.

Under the new arrangement The Hatchet office may be reached after hours by dialing NA 5200 or NA 5201.

Ragatz to Present Series of Lectures Along West Coast

• DR. LOWELL RAGATZ, Professor of European History will spend six weeks during June and July lecturing in 24 Canadian and Pacific Coast cities such as Winnipeg, Vancouver, Portland, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

These lectures will deal with international problems of the day. Among the subjects that Dr. Ragatz will discuss are: "Pattern for Post-War Europe Toward a Third World War?", "The Basis for a Lasting Peace" and "The Russian Enigma."

The lectures are given under the auspices of various civic bodies and educational institutions.

This is Dr. Ragatz's second year of lecturing. Last year he lectured in the south west and along the Pacific Coast. The variation between the two years is that this year Dr. Ragatz will address the George Washington Alumni in Portland, San Francisco and Las Angeles.

New Council Meets

• MEMBERS OF the newly-elected Student Council met last Friday night with the present council to learn the order of business and to receive instructions on the duties of each office.

Offspring To Honor Mom, Pop

Oslin, Brady Talk At Annual Fete For Parents

• PARENTS' NIGHT, honoring mothers and fathers of students of the University, will be held Friday evening with the opening meeting at 8:15 p.m. in the Hall of Government, Room 101. Dean Elmer L. Kayser will preside, and President Cloyd Heck Marvin will welcome the group.

The program includes greetings by Jessma Oslin, a daughter; Luther Brady, a son; Mrs. Betty W. Biesemeier, a mother; Senator William Langer, a father; and Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr., a trustee of the University. This is followed by an address, "College Education and the Post War World", by Dean William C. Johnstone.

At 8:45 a tour of the University Buildings will take place with sorority women acting as guides. A program of student activities is planned next on Lisner Terrace and will include selections by a section of the Glee Club, Mortar Board Tapping, numbers by Modern Dance Group, and skits by Cue 'n' Curtain.

An informal reception will be held at 9:30 at Strong Hall, to enable parents to meet the President, Deans, and Faculties of the University.

Invitations for the evening have been issued to the parents of students under 21 years old. Other students may secure tickets for their parents in Building K.

Barrows Releases J-P Exam Blanks From Civil Service

• WOMEN'S Advisory Council for War Training Service announces applications for Civil Service Junior Professional Examination on May 11, may be secured in the office of Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, Director of Personnel Guidance.

The Council recently met with Miss Holland of Remington Rand and obtained information on Service Manager Assistant Jobs open to college graduates. Special training classes begin in June in New York. The WACWTS have complete information on these opportunities in the Placement Bureau in Mrs. Barrows' office.

The Council has also assembled detailed information on job opportunities in various private industries, including International Business Machines, and airlines. It has listed jobs in Civil Service, women's military services, Army map making, and educational professions. These are special opportunities for the Senior women who will graduate in June.

Bloedorn Speaks At Club Monday

• DEAN WALLER Bloedorn, of the University Medical School, will be the speaker at the next meeting of the Aesculapian Society on Friday, at 8:15 p.m. in Columbian House.

His talk to the pre-medical society will concern the relation of medical schools to the service.

Jerome Pollack, president of Aesculapian, has announced that elections for officers for the school year beginning in September will be held after the discussion by Dean Bloedorn.

Senior Stew

With exactly two more weeks of regular school, the senior class officers have succeeded in coming out with a number of high-sounding plans, holding one senior class meeting, and producing exactly nothing except a definite date for the senior prom, and all of the work on the prom is done by alumni anyhow.

We will be the first to acknowledge the difficulty of organizing anything at the University, yet we can't help but feel angry and disgusted at the lack of action on the part of persons who themselves sought office, and campaigned for election.

As far as can be ascertained, the fault lies with the president of the class, whose duty it is to take the lead in planning for the seniors. That he was not a well qualified person to hold the office was obvious from the outset, but it was hoped by many that he would do a good job because he did not have so many things taking up his time as did other nominees. This hope has been proved a false one. The senior class president is either unable or unwilling to carry out the duties with which he has been entrusted.

For the past two years now, the senior class officers have been elected early in the year so that they might have the time to formulate and carry out an extensive senior program. Time is so short now, however, that it appears doubtful whether the senior class president will be able to do anything in that capacity other than deliver the customary speech at Class Night—an honor of which he is certainly not worthy.

Other Editors Say:

Continue Sports

In presenting the following guest editorial from the Reserve Tribune of Western Reserve University, The Hatchet wishes to point out that the situation at that college as herein discussed is comparable to the situation at the University, almost paragraph for paragraph.

It's a pretty good bet that with the outcome of last Saturday's game so decidedly in favor of Reserve the question uppermost in Reserve minds is "Why don't we have a Varsity?" Right on the heels of this great Red Cat triumph is a time to air the question.

In June of 1943, Western Reserve University dropped intercollegiate sports for the duration. At that time the University had lost most of its varsity material to the armed services, and the prospects of getting any replacements were mighty slim indeed. At that time the step was considered wise, but we feel that times have changed sufficiently and will change even more so, to demand reconsideration of the issue.

For one thing, during the period of no intercollegiate sports, University spirit dropped to an unprecedented low. Practically all social functions died or were unsupported by a spiritless campus, and the brand of a "street car college" could no longer be denied at Reserve.

The recent Case game proves that Reserve still wants to have college spirit, that Reserve will support intercollegiate sports, but other facts can not be denied.

Shelved away in the Adelbert Gymnasium rests Roy Clifford, one of the finest basketball coaches in this region. Clifford really proved his ability in training the All-Stars in three short weeks from highly individual intramural players to smooth-working and cooperative teammates. He cannot be overlooked.

Also as the war progresses more and more men will undoubtedly come back to Reserve as medical discharges. They may be unfit for combat service, but still may be physically fit for sports. These, too, and the men already here at school, cannot be overlooked.

We have the coach, we have the material, and we have the spirit and need for some intercollegiate sports, mainly basketball.

HOW ABOUT IT?

BEFORE I FORGET

By CHARLES DAUGHERTY

• WHEN YOU take in the Annual Concert and Dance of the University Glee Clubs next Saturday night at the Willard Hotel, you will be witnessing the 20th annual performance of the man and woman who are Mr. and Mrs. George Washington University to more students and alumni than any other couple in the University.

If you watch closely or sit up in the front you will notice the sly wink and whispered joke or pleasant insult that Doctor Robert Harmon will use to loosen up 80 tense singers before they swing joyously into their first number; you will notice and be impressed by the loving confidence with which he will motion to his wife, a perfect accompanist, for the opening chord. In the old days Stan Russell, end man and bass of the men's club for four years, would begin with a horrible pun and an irresistible chuckle to send a ripple of laughter through the singers, and the feeling of ease and confidence and supreme pleasure would be communicated to the 500 listeners. Stan is gone now, a marine, but his spirit—the irreplaceable spirit of the glee club—is there still. Watch for it.

Who are these people who personify the spirit of G. W., who are the spirit of the Glee Club? Twenty years ago Robert Howe Harmon, a southerner and gentleman, born and raised in Mississippi and a graduate of that state's first theological school, Millsap College, entered the University's School of Medicine. He had considered the ministry, had become a school teacher and principal of a high school in Alexandria, and had given up that sinecure to take up the killing grind of the med student. Today he is University physician, possessor of a tremendous practice and an unsurpassable record of never having lost a mother in childbirth or a child.

Doc dearly loves to tell a good story, and he tells them well. His most characteristic trick is to hide to clubs for wasting time, spread out his arms and get them all set to sing, and then spoil everything by launching out on another set of stories. I don't know whether he does it to the girls' club, but the men often get 10 minute lectures on anatomy, new medicines, progress in the treatment of pneumonia, advance in the sulfa field, etc. Invariably he ends up with a boyish grin and a playful "see what you get in the Glee Club? All free medical advice, costs you nothing."

Incredibly well read for a man with as little time to read as he has, he can spiel for hours Kipling and Burns, and he can quote endlessly from the Bible. He constantly kids his charges, saying "Don't you know these things? They don't teach you the right things in college these days." Then follows his great rolling laugh. He's right up in his medicine, too. Charles Fugitt, a glee clubber who is coming from Pensacola for the concert this year, and a research chemist of tremendous promise, used to remark often of Doc's grasp of physical chemistry and progress in research, a grasp far beyond that of the ordinary general practitioner.

Part of Doc's phenomenal popularity with scores of potentially temperamental singers is his unquestioned ability to outsing in volume and quality everybody in either club. His range is terrific—he can sing all but the lowest bass notes and all but the highest tenor notes without going into falsetto. Despite his protestations that his voice is but a ghost of its former self, he can fill a great hall with rich sound and melody.

He is a Methodist by choice but catholic in religious taste. He tells of a Sunday during which he sang at religious services of five denominations from Catholic to Hebrew and enjoyed every one. He is a paragon of tolerance and good-fellowship.

Doc is a rabid Colonial fan and a passionate devotee of football. Absolutely the only thing that can take precedence over a Sunday rehearsal is a Redskins football game. With an amazing memory, he can reconstruct virtually every move of every important Colonial football game for the last 10 years. He will tell you his all-time Colonial football team at the drop of a hat. His most important asset is his wife and accompanist, Grace Ruble Harmon, a woman who is as completely wrapped up in the University Glee Club as Doc himself.

Mrs. Harmon, a singer of accomplishment herself, is living for the day when the University will install a school of music with regular courses in musical theory, voice tone and control, etc. When that time comes, and it will with the development of the magnificent new auditorium, she will devote her soul to developing Colonial Carusos, and my bet is that she will do it. She is apparently the direct antithesis of her spouse, shy, retiring, easy going, constantly seeking for perfection of voice, for the mysterious elusive "blend" that is the goal of all singing groups. No one but a person of her temperament could be unconcerned with Doc's unexcelled "way with the women." Many a glee clubber has attempted to model his technique with the girls from Doc's methods. To my knowledge, none has succeeded. Suffice it to say that in the 1944 Women's Clubs there are 50 girls who are crazy about Doc, and Mrs. Harmon doesn't give a hoot. Quietly serene, sure of her position, she is a binding, directing force the club could not do without.

Through his gift of medicine, Doc Harmon has made many people well and strong. Through his gift of song, Doc Harmon had made infinitely more people, both singers and listeners, happy and contented.

Come on out Saturday and see these people and hear these singers. You will not be disappointed.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor of The Hatchet:

I have been getting The Hatchet regularly these days, and today I came over to the Service Club library to read the last three issues. No sooner had I spread them out before me than the librarian—young at good looking, too—came over to read them. She turned out to be an old alumna, class of 1937, and we proceeded to have a gay old time discussing the old alma mater and our days there. So I can thank you for the introduction.

I think The Hatchet is a rather good paper, and the entire staff should be complimented. Of course, most of the news items are of little interest to me—faces change so—but I like your editorial page. One thing I like is the independent attitude you take, as in your review of "Nine Girls." Whether the play was good or not, I think it was good to offer a truthful opinion, instead of the usual sugar-coated praise. After all, no amount of hard work or beautiful sets can compensate for mediocre acting.

I also liked that series of letters on the Katyn forest controversy stirred up by Dean Kayser's statement. I came across, not long ago, in Southern Pines, copies of both the German and Russian propaganda releases on the subject and had a chance to read them both thoroughly; and I came to the conclusion that no one will ever actually know what happened. I am prejudiced, of course. The Russian explanation seems sound to me because, probably, I would like to have it that way, because the Germans seem to do things that way more often than do the Russians, and because such acts seem to fit in with the German race theories more easily than with the past Russian treatment of minorities.

I notice that the school politicians are at it again with their usual empty minds and full egos.

Life here at Fort Bragg is rather hectic. The working day in my outfit is from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m., so you can see that there is little chance for recreation. I'm now in the battalion fire direction center, the job of which is to direct fire of the batteries on targets here and there with surprise and great concentration. . . . Just wait until we get to work on those pillboxes and forts of the Westwall.

Incidentally, you civilians may be worried about the Nazi fortifications in Europe, but I have come to the conclusion that we are really an ingenious people, after reading about some of the devices we have for destroying fortifications. It won't be easy, but we have the machines to do it, and the men too.

Sincerely yours,
Dan Fusfeld.

Dear "J. B. Truly":

The answer to your queries will be found in the notes covering the introductory lecture on 4 February, and in the mimeographed material distributed on that day, and at intervals since.

Since you may have been absent on the opening day or may have mislaid your material, your questions were fully answered in class yesterday. They appear to be rooted in the long-outmoded concept of history as a study of past politics and the accumulation of a miscellaneous collection of names and dates rather than the development of certain outlooks on life which make for more intelligent, better citizenship.

I trust that all is now clear. If not, you doubtless know that three of us (my assistants and myself) are at the office one and one-half hours each Monday, Wednesday and Friday, to answer questions. We see an average of 20 students daily. Why not drop in some time? It IS four flights up, but the others don't seem to mind.

Lowell Ragatz.

To the Editor of The Hatchet:

I am writing this letter to you in an unofficial capacity as a mere member of the Student Body of The George Washington University, and wish it clearly understood as such.

This is a note of request to you, to the new editor of The Hatchet, whomever he may be, and to the Administration of the University.

With the summer sessions now an integral part of the University academic year, with larger numbers of students attending classes the year round than have ever done so before, I feel that there is a definite need of a summer school paper.

With the near-demise of the Press Bureau which used to publish such a paper, I feel that the logical persons upon whom the publication of a summer news-sheet should devolve would be the editors of The Hatchet.

The University catalogue states that there are three issues of a summer paper published. I feel that this should actually be done, and herewith offer the suggestion to those in a position to provide for it.

David M. Mulcahy.

Cue 'n' Curtain Presents Comedy Next Week

Strickland To Portray Lead Role

Comedy Played As Movie "Here Comes Mr. Jordan"

• "HEAVEN CAN WAIT," a three-act comedy, will be presented by Cue 'n' Curtain Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week at the Wardman Park Little Theater under the direction of Floyd L. Sparks.

The play, which played here as the movie "Here Comes Mr. Jordan" is the story of Joe Pendleton, an up and coming heavyweight boxer, who is called to Heaven before his time and who returns to earth in the bodies of an eminent Wall Street Banker, Johnathan Farnsworth, and later, the world champion heavyweight boxer, Kayo Murdock.

Larry Strickland, previously seen in "Dark Eyes" and emcee of the Buff 'n' Blue, will portray the lead role as Joe Pendleton. Jack Sweeney, as God's assistant Mr. Jordan, will make first appearance in a University dramatic production.

Jo Forbes, who plays Mrs. Farnsworth; Jack Henry, as Tony Abbott her lover; Luther Brady, as Messenger 7013, and Don A. Balfour who plays Max Levene the fight manager, have all appeared in Workshop plays.

Emma Massa, as Susie; Eloise Van Story, the nurse; and Toni Ziff, as Ann have all appeared in Cue 'n' Curtain or Workshop productions.

Appearing with the dramatic group for the first time will be Lulu Moss as Mrs. Ames, Sol Pargament as Williams, Eugene Randall, Lloyd Price, Joe Holmes, and Barry Barnes.

SAM Holds Party After Next Meet To Honor Officers

• A PARTY and dance, open to all University students, will follow the election of next year's officers of the University Branch of the Society for Advancement of Management, at its meeting to be held Monday at 8:15 p.m. in Recreation Hall, Fred Holcomb, president, announced Sunday.

Nominations for officers and executive board membership of the SAM were made last week by a nominations committee, composed of Charles Daugherty, Chairman, Harmon Tyler, Allen Ensign, Mario A. Sonnino, and Roy E. Peltó.

Nominees for office include: President, Clifford Carlstedt and Roy E. Peltó; Vice-President, Allen Ensign and Fred Holcomb; Treasurer, Mario A. Sonnino and George Cunney; and Secretary, Rosine Hall and Harmon Tyler. Nominations for membership on the Executive Board include all those nominated for office plus Howard Mainhart, Don A. Balfour, John A. Cannon, Lloyd Iddings, N. Herbert Halberstadt, and Gerard Jetton. Further nominations for all positions will be allowed from the floor.

A committee to audit the treasurer's books was appointed last week at a meeting of the Branch executive board, and includes Roy E. Peltó, chairman, Prof. Ralph D. Kennedy, and Don A. Balfour.

FEA, WFA, Hosts

• TWO DANCES, open only to male students of the University, will be given May 10 and 15 by the Foreign Economics Administration and the War Foods Administration in the main ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel.

Both dances, which will sponsor the 5th War Loan Drive for War Bonds and Stamps, will begin at 8:30 P. M. and will be informal.

Library Will Close

• BECAUSE OF THE blackout test scheduled for Monday, May 8th, from 8:50 to 9:50 p.m., the University libraries will close at 8:45 p.m. that night.

Scholarship Entries Deadline, May 15

• MAY 15 IS THE deadline for entries in all scholarships under jurisdiction of the scholarship committee.

Requirements for the contest are as follows: The applicant must be a full time student with a 2.5 index and unmarried. Each applicant must bring four letters of recommendation with him when he enters the contest.

Students wishing to enter may do so by applying at Dean West's office.

Phi D G Honors Sells At Banquet

• MRS. ALICE P. Sells, first vice president of the national council of Phi Delta Gamma, graduate woman's fraternity, will be the honor guest at a dinner given Monday, May 1st, 6:30 p.m. at the Fairfax Hotel by the three local chapters of Phi Delta Gamma: Beta, Alpha and the Alumnae.

Mrs. Sells is Placement Executive at Teachers College, Columbia University. Interested in working for China since 1937, she is chairman of the China Relief Committee of Columbia. At one time she served as chairman of the merchandising committee of the American Bureau for Medical Aid to China. At present she is on the nursing committee of that Bureau.

She is a graduate of Wellesley College where she was a fellow student with Madame Chiang Kai-shek. It was Mrs. Sells who, on behalf of her own chapter, Zeta, extended to Madame Chiang the invitation upon which she became a national honorary member of Phi Delta Gamma.

Mrs. Sells has done graduate work at Ohio State University where she received her M.A. degree, and at Teachers College, Columbia.

At the dinner Monday night, Miss Marian Scott, member of the national council and national treasurer of Phi Delta Gamma, will preside in the absence from the city of Miss Jean Benton, president of Beta chapter. In the matter of arrangements, Alpha Chapter is represented by Miss Sarah Motley, president, and Miss Bertha Meridian; the Alumnae Chapter by Mrs. L. R. Wagner, president.

Four Teams Enter Coed Tennis Finals

• FINALS OF Co-ed Doubles Matches will be played off this week. Approximately twenty girls entered with four teams remaining undefeated at the end of last week. The undefeated teams remaining are: Peggy Gruewell and Felicia Miller; Barbara Sauber and Muriel Kaufman; Julie Fiske and Anne Stewart; Barbara Gilsan and Pauline Bolian.

The preliminary games began yesterday, and the final games will be played Thursday or Friday afternoon in the Federal Reserve Courts from 4:15 to 5:15. Winners will be awarded a loving cup and points for the Women's Athletic Association and runners-up will receive WAA points. The schedule is posted in Building H.

SNU Meets

• STUDENT NURSES will hold an important meeting Thursday night at 8:30 p.m. for all night students and those girls who did not attend the April 28 meeting, Pat Perry, President of the group, announced yesterday.

Members will meet at the entrance to the Hospital, she further stated, and should remember that dues will be collected.

Subscriptions Again

• THE MORTAR BOARD has just renewed their gift subscription to the Book-of-the-Month Club for the University Library. This is an annual gift.

REWARD

Evans Gets Tapped By Honorary

• JOSHUA EVANS, Jr., prominent Washington banker and leader in civic affairs, has accepted an invitation to join the George Washington University Beta Chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, according to an announcement by Dr. Lowell Ragatz, Faculty Advisor of Beta Chapter and Co-Lieutenant Governor of the District of Columbia Province.

"Pi Gamma Mu is honored," Dr. Ragatz continued, "to number among its members a man who has actively advanced higher learning in his chosen field, supported numerous social services, and rendered long distinguished service to our community."

It is of interest to note that Mr. Evans is the fourth member of his family to become a member of Pi Gamma Mu. Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr., who has been a member of the Board of Trustees of the University since 1923, was inducted in 1941. Their sons, Lt. Philip Wharton Evans, U.S.N., and the late Joshua Evans III, both won election to the Society. Lt. Evans, who is in this country en route to a new station from South Atlantic patrol duty, was president of his chapter at the University of the South.

Bombers Upset Seabees To Take Pingpong Cup

• THE BOMBER JINX over the Seabees held true again last Friday night when an underdog Bomber table tennis team won the gold cup as 1944 champions.

The upset came in the singles match as Barry Kreisberg was unable to down his fighting opponent, Danny Bierman. Kreisberg's usual slam game went for naught as his rival kept putting them right back in his lap every time. Bierman defeated Kreisberg in straight sets 21-15 and 24-22. In the doubles match the Seabees came through as expected and defeated the team of Bierman and Hirsch 22-20 and 21-19.

This split in the championship necessitated a game to see who would receive the cup and Wagman, Kreisberg's partner, won the toss to see what game would be played. He chose doubles and most of the onlookers figured this as a smart move. But Hirsch and Bierman had other ideas and they defeated the Seabee team 22-20 in a very close game to gain the award.

WAA Banquet To Be Held At Fairfax Inn

• THE W. A. A. annual spring banquet will be given May 13, at the Fairfax Hotel at 6:30 p. m., announced Barbara Lyddane, social chairman. Any university woman may attend the banquet.

Marion Royce, Secretary of World Y. W. C. A. will be guest speaker. "The Effect of War on College Women," Miss Royce will speak. She has been touring American colleges throughout the country and is well able to discuss the subject. Miss Royce also plans to present suggestions for W. A. A. activities in time of war. The tennis cup, letters, and other merits will be awarded to winners at the banquet.

Recent alumnae and several representative students from surrounding colleges will be present.

Tickets may be bought from W. A. A. members at 75 cents, but since the capacity crowd is 75 persons it is suggested that tickets be obtained as soon as possible.
